In most cases your financial aid eligibility must be determined using your biological/adoptive parents' income and asset information. However, if your family circumstances are such that you are unable to live with and be supported by your biological/adoptive parents because of:

- 1) The involuntary dissolution of the family due to abuse, death, or imprisonment or
- 2) Your parents are physically or mentally incapacitated or
- 3) You have not been in legal custody of your biological parents, your dependency status may be re-evaluated. The U.S. Department of Education requires documentation to be submitted to the Student One Stop Center in order to determine if the circumstances warrant a dependency override. Dependency overrides are performed on a case-by-case basis. Even if you were eligible for an override in a previous academic year or at a previously-attended institution, you may not qualify for an override in the future.

The U.S. Department of Education has mandated that the following conditions, singly or in combination, DO NOT merit a dependency override and WILL NOT be considered:

- 1) Parents' refusal to contribute to your education;
- 2) Parents' unwillingness to provide information on the FAFSA or for verification purposes;
- 3) Parents do not claim you as a dependent for income tax purposes;
- 4) You (student) demonstrate total self-sufficiency by not residing with parents.

Appeals will not be considered until the Wilmington College Student One Stop Center has received all required documentation as noted below. If this appeal is approved, it is only valid for the 2018-2019 academic year. Your dependency status must be evaluated each year. Please allow up to 8 weeks for your appeal to be reviewed.
